“WE HAVE A GOOD IDEA FOR YOUR PRODUCTS!”

Our graphic design team, in line with the demands of our customers, makes modern and correctly expressed special designs for the desired product.

Photographs of the product are taken in our photography studio, and the photos are made ready for printing in a professional way on screens that have been calibrated for printing color.

The designs made are prepared with the CTP system with the approval of the customer. In the CTP system, exposure is made from the computer to the printing plate without the use of film. In this way, the traditional printing plate preparation method, film-to-plate exposure, prevents the errors that may occur due to the film, ensuring that smaller screen points are exposed and all the details required for perfect printing are exposed to the offset printing plate.

“Thanks to the numerous colors offered by offset printing, the packaging is now more colorful and of high quality.”

Printing is done with the most suitable method for your business with Offset printing, Flexo printing and Silk Screen printing methods. The printing process is started after attaching the plates of the works whose printing pattern is drawn to the machine and preparing the paper.

Color measurements and adjustments are made in order to realize the printing according to the standards with the quality management system of the prints made at the first stage, and the final printing is started.

After the printing process, we start the process where the product will be finalized. Lamination is done with cellophane, lacquer and varnish in order to ensure print quality, colors not fading, scratching and maintaining their vitality for a long time. This results in more durable packaging.

After that, the laminating, cutting and gluing and post-press processes of the product are completed and it is ready for shipment.
